

CURRICULUM VITAE: Mitsuru Taki

Position:

Principal Researcher
Guidance and Counselling Research Center
National Institute for Educational Policy Research

Academic Qualification

M.A. in Education at Nagoya University in Japan

Employment History

1983-1986 Lecturer, Faculty of Education, Miyazaki University
1987-1995 Associate Professor, Faculty of Education, Miyazaki University
1996-2001 Head of Guidance and Counselling Educational Department, National Institute for Educational Research
2001- Principal Researcher, Guidance and Counselling Research Center, National Institute for Educational Policy Research

Selected Publications

Taki, M. (2004) 'Ijime-bullying': characteristic and causal process (Japanese), NIER Research Bulletin No.133, National Institute for Educational Policy Research Japan.
Taki, M.(Eds) (2002) Peer Support Program for Implementing Procedure at Schools. Kaneko-Shobou (Japanese)
Taki, M. (2001) Relation among Bullying, Stress and Stressor: A Follow-up Survey Using Panel Data and a Comparative Survey between Japan and Australia, Japanese Society, Volume 5, The Japanese Society Research Institute, 2001
Taki, M. (Eds) (2001) Peer Support Program for Elementary Schools. Kaneko-Shobou (Japanese)
Taki, M. (Eds) (2000) Peer Support Program for Junior-High Schools. Kaneko-Shobou (Japanese)
Taki, M. (1999) Change school and children will change. Jijitsushinsha(Japanese)
Morita, Soeda, Soeda and Taki (1999) Japan, in P.K.Smith et al (Eds) The nature of School bullying, Lomdon: Routledge.
Taki, M. (1997) Child stress and the background. Reseach Report for HJIER, No. 36 (Japanese)
Taki, M.(eds)(1997) PEACE pack for Japanese school anti-bullying program, Shogakukan (Japanese)
Taki, M (1996) Bullying in school, Meijitosho (Japanese)

Grant Funding

2000 Research on the anti-bullying program (Ministry of Education, Japan).
1998 The pilot research on the international survey on child stress. (Ministry of Education, Japan).
1995-97 The research on child stress in Japanese schools (Ministry of Education, Japan).